Getting to know that special someone includes learning about family and friends and schooling and athletics, favorite pastimes, books, movies, life's best moments and worst, the brightest places in our background and the darkest. But what about theology? Ever think to ask about that? At desiringGod.org, one of our most accessed pages online is a set of questions John Piper put together for couples preparing for marriage (chapter 1 in this book). There is some of the typical stuff — like friends and entertainment and lifestyle and children — but many have found that Piper's way of putting the question helps get right at some pretty deep stuff. And then there's the questions about theology, worship and devotion, and the roles of husband and wife — questions that far too many couples don't think to ask. When preparing for marriage, or even in just beginning to consider it, it is of immense help to have the perspective not only of a seasoned husband of over forty years, but also a seasoned pastor and theologian.
